THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS
is not only in the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also in the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the California Syrup of Figs Co. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true article, as it is the only genuine Syrup of Figs produced by the CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS CO. and, as far as we can see, the only one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other persons, the highest quality of the CALIFORNIA SYRUP CO. with the scientific and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to us, we can assure you that the name of the Company is a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy. It is far better to take the Syrup of Figs as it acts on the kidneys, liver and heart, with no irritating or weakening effects. Please remember the name of the Company —

THE CONGRESS
HOW D. B. SMITH, OF LAKES COUNTY.

The congressional contingent of the Republican party in the Second district is still whirling around, trying to catch its tail. It's having a Jolly time.

New York hosts of a citizen who is surely a "Lily" is the only native of the Philippines now in the United States. His name is Raymond Lala.

The President has undertaken the task of appointing a committee to investigate the conduct of the war. As might be anticipated, he is having much trouble in finding men to serve on it. It will not doubt prove a fiasco.

Li Hung Chang, the famous Chinese statesman, has been dismissed from power by his government. It is surely Li's alleged partiality to nations that caused him to lose his job, and it is supposed it was done at England's bidding.

The testimony given by the soldiers and nurses who have spent the last few months at Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park, is of the most convincing character, giving in detail the horrible experiences of the sick and wounded, and a full rebuke to those who are trying to smother over the hospital irregularities for the sake of the administration. These stories of earnest truth and honesty cannot be easily controverted.

The torpedo boat played little or no part in the war just closed. And the dynamics of war are failure. Doubtless all the experiments that were designed to work wonders, failed to demonstrate their practical usefulness. There was absolutely no effective show of death-dealing apparatus outside of the regular guns, and even in this case it was not so much the gun as the man behind the gun, whose efficiency was apparent. But there is no mistake about one thing—our regular warships are the terror of the earth.

There is positively no subject which should so interest every farmer in Ohio county as good country roads. And yet the matter is allowed to drift along and the good weather will soon be gone. Nothing so plainly indicates a live, progressive chit-chab as good roads, and nothing so fails the farmer than a bad road. The time has come to get in touch, and to make other ways of vital interest to welfare and prosperity. Every farmer should take this matter personally in hand and put it. Good roads are the very life of a county and without them no county can prosper. They are as essential to the welfare of a county as railroads are to the business of the world.

As in nearly everything else in almost every line of business, the greatest beneficiaries in the war late were the syndicates, trusts and those engaged in other forms of consolidated capital. The railroads were very assiduously engaged in pulling Uncle Sam's leg. It now appears that the location of camps was not always determined by fitness, by sanitary conditions, by water supply nor by any other specific consideration, but by the interests of rail and commerce with a "puff." The country's war and the soldiers' interests have counted for nothing, when the occasion could be turned into profit to individual or associated capital. Very few interests indeed which were brought into juxtaposition with Uncle Sam's war fund, failed to profit thereby.

Everyone in us while we have of some makings a prince of a foreign dynasty taking unto himself an American woman for a wife or having his eye set upon one of our fair girls. And generally the girl and her relatives seem tickled to death at the idea. Now this may appeal all right in the eye of some people whose desire is for notoriety, but to us it seems decidedly improper and repulsive. The foreign girls with their peculiar and lascivious ways, are not fitted to become the husbands of American girls. Their lives and habits are distinctly incongruous. The girl who comes the threshold of one of these thickfolded flocks, and becomes his wife, is apt to think that she is winning an enviable place and name, but it generally turns out that she becomes as much a prisoner and as relatives—so to his movements strong was the prejudice against him

Alfred Dreyfus was born in Alais, Germany, and he is at present just thirty-nine years old. And the last year of his life he has been a soldier of his country or his adopted country, France, ever heard of his name. He was not much above the ordinary in intellect or appearance. He was a small, thin man, with sparse glasses, and was a quiet, studious, Captain. He was a captain in his regiment, the Fourteenth Artillery. He married rich, but was not popular with the public, on account of his race, as the French and German nations have a great real love for each other.

Dreyfus was arrested on October 16, 1894, but the incident did not become known until the next year, 1895, when he was tried for the R. P. Dry Ridge, Captain of the Eighth New York regiment, who was at Chickamauga.

The location of the hospital was in the rains that when they drove in, the buggy was overturned.

The horse broke loose and Mr. Byers got his daughter home.

The horse was a good one and put the rain a short distance.

They left the buggy and horse and went to Mr. Wilson's to spend the night.

The next morning he was sent to the hospital, but his wife was in

THE ONE WHO WONT BE THERE.

I don't think I'll go in town to see the boys come back. My wife there would do good to it if she could.
There'll be enough to welcome them to cheer
them when they come.
And when it's time for the time that's best upon them they'll come to me the closest not one
will care.

I want to see them away—I'll holler with the rest, and then they took that, that's what I want to see.

And when the cheer is right, I'll holler with the rest, and then they'll come to me the closest not one
will care.

I want to see them away—

I'll holler with the rest, and then they'll come to me the closest not one
will care.

I want to see them away—
